

Nurses Upset California Union Coming to Houston
Last Edited: Monday, 08 Sep 2008, 7:08 PM CDT
Created: Monday, 08 Sep 2008, 7:08 PM CDT'

HOUSTON -- There's a battle brewing at the northwest medical center here in Houston. A half-dozen nurses are fighting a labor union that's hoping to set up shop in the hospital.

Workers say they already have a great working relationship with the administration at the facility and they don't need a union to interfere.

Fox 26 news has learned the California Nurses Association is in the hospital recruiting potential members. This comes just five months after the association unionized the Cy-Fair hospital.

Officials with the union did not return FOX 26's calls for a comment over the issue. A spokesperson for the hospital agrees with the nurses saying a third party is not needed at northwest.

Officials with the facility say they're confident their employees will make the right decision. The CNA is able to recruit in the hospital because of a neutrality agreement obtained after the unionization of the Cy-Fair Hospital. Both facilities are owned by tenet health care.